Hi Jennifer

Thanks for the reminder. The heat IS effecting my motivation and speed or I am getting old! Take you pick!

I am impressed with the web sight. I found it easy to navigate and saw the value in the straight forward way of interacting and getting the results. Both as a database designer and a teacher, I am excited about the idea of Community Learning Spaces. The web site brings an exciting concreteness to the concept!

I am currently working with WRAC on the Venue Inventory database. I have suggested when they finalised the design we run it by you i.e. WIN for suggestions. Amy please remind Lisa Kohlmeier - thanks

In fact quite apart from my involvement with WRAC I would be interested in learning more on how the searching is actually done. I am assuming an SQL statement is generated from the web site input and a mapping to the access WRAC database but I would be personally interested in how. This would be useful in my work with non-profit organizations, website or not!

Might it be possible for me to come to the university and chat about the process? I realise with holidays and "project confidentiality", this may not be feasible, but I would like to try! Please let be know and I can arrange a suitable time.

Sorry I rook so long to respond.

Ric

Hi Amy,

I am following up on the message "WRAC Follow-up" I sent on July 17 asking for feedback on the WRAC Community Learning Space. I have not yet received any feedback. Could you please remind everyone to whom you passed on the message.

Thanks in advance.

Jennifer
